Contest Theme:

PEOPLE ARE NOT FOR SALE

Human Trafficking, known as modern day slavery, is making a person work or sell themselves by either physical or psychological force, or by fraud or trickery, or through threats of harm, and includes children selling or trading their bodies or labor. The FBI identified San Francisco as a hot spot for human trafficking in the United States.

Eligibility: The contest is open to middle and high school students attending public, private, or home schools in San Francisco and the greater Bay Area. All contestants are encouraged to view the orientation video available at https://sfcaht.org/teen-contests.html before submitting their entry.

Contest Rules:
- Writing must not exceed 500 words.
- Original writing ONLY (no previously written or published materials).
- The document can be printed, typed or written legibly (illegible submissions will be rejected).
- Writing can be completed by an individual or in groups of up to 3 members.
- Limit of one entry per student or group.
- The contest theme: “People are not for sale” must be addressed in the writing itself.
- The submitted writing will be judged for its compelling message and originality.
